

Hash Report

Run 283 – Brumston Bridge, Wythop Mill, 4th November 2018

Hares – Rocky Rock and Plum Tart

A select band of runners – but no walkers on this occasion, met on a damp autumnal morning at the back of Sale Fell, to see what delights Rocky and Plum had in store for us. After the usual sale of jams / chutneys and re-association with passing random dogs, the hashers set off on random routes, before being called to heel heading out on the back road towards the western end of Wythop Mill, before starting to ascend the Corpse Road skirting Ling Fell. An inevitable “check-back” that saw us retracing our steps back towards the road, before reascending up the fellside in the opposite direction above Burthwaite, and ever upwards towards the summit! Plum Tart was clearly seeking her revenge following her aborted attempts to enforce order on a previous hash in Whinlatter earlier in the year! We eventually started to descend – with some cynical hashers not believing that Plum would actually take us downhill! We went through a small area of attractive woodland before emerging on the green lane that runs between Highside Farm and Wythop Mill. Heading back towards the village – could this be one of the shortest hashes on record?

Of course not – don’t be silly! As we entered the top end of the village, the trail hopped over a stile, into a garden and then surprise, surprise, headed west away from the village. Before eventually emerging at a junction in the midst of tracks! Some of us who have ventured into this area before – were starting to feel a little anxious knowing we were very close to the infamous “Seacross Lonning” – aptly named due to its likeliness to a stream! Could this be Huggy territory for his normal in-hash dip! Sure enough due to Plum’s likeness for finding “shiggy” on a hash we were into the lonning heading back towards the village. It started off remarkably dry, before the inevitable mud bath, emerging at a proper stream adjacent to Beck Bank Farm. The supposed ford provided the perfect opportunity for Huggy to submerge in his hash ritual dip!

Immediately followed by a welcome ON IN to head back through the village to the start point. An enjoyable hash and the rain held off for the event!

The ON INN was taken at Derwent Lodge – but unfortunately as I didn’t attend – can’t comment on what it was like!
