

Hash Report

Run 290 – Felldyke, Lamplugh, 4th August 2019

Hares – Rent Boy and Leopard Thong

Hashers: G-string, Half Dome, Miss Demeanour, Rocky Rock, Slasher, Weakender.

Pre-start, the Hashers looked worried. They had already been advised by the Hares to wear full-body protection – and then the Hares turned up, exhausted and dishevelled, carrying blunt secateurs and garden shears. They reassured us that all would be well (but to beware of the biting dogs!) and so we set off in the highest spirits we could manage.

After some pleasant meadows and past the barking dogs, which were no longer biting since they'd been shut inside, the undergrowth gradually started to get thicker, with frisky looking bullocks here and there to add an extra bit of interest. On, on, over the main road, through more pleasant countryside, back over the main road and then into the Highlight of the Hash – a tunnel carved out of the dense jungle by our intrepid Hares. It seemed to go on for miles before ending abruptly at some tarmac. What a feat of public footpath clearance!

We were soon into Lamplugh and the Hare joined us for the last mile over more pleasant countryside. As we finished, the rain started, but it was not enough to dampen our elation at having survived what turned out to be a great hash.
